KECA is a non-profit 501(c)(3) wildlife conservation _____ that focuses their resources on Pennsylvania's _____ herd and the Elk Country Visitor Center located in _____, Pennsylvania.

Conservation education is our number one priority. In 2013, we launched our exciting Distance Learning program that allows us to take Elk Country to _____ and civic groups that are unable to visit, through geographic or fiscal constraints. Our Conservation Education staff reaches out through online technology via Skype to complete our unique programs with the participants live. Our traveling elk trunk is shipped to the groups in advance, and is packed full of _____, hides, skulls and other informative items. KECA truly is a _____ in conservation education, and our staff works hard every day to bring the Elk Country experience to people _____.

Our efforts of wise land stewardship are spreading across Elk Country. We are working closely with the Pennsylvania Department of _____ and the Pennsylvania _____ Commission to enrich habitat for elk and other wildlife through mowing, _____ and other projects. We look forward to continuing and expanding these efforts in working with private land owners this year on a number of projects.
